0	2/23	24	25	26	27	28	29	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> Preparations for online teaching start on Feb. 24. Classes begin on Mar. 2. During the 16 teaching weeks in this semester, courses will first be taught online, then taught both online and in classrooms, and finally taught regularly in classrooms. The transition dates will be determined by the University Office according to the COVID-19 situation. Dates for students to return to the campus will be announced by the University Office with approval from the Ministry of Education and Shanghai Municipal Government. Students need to promptly register within their departments upon returning to the campus. Resits are to be held after students' returning to the campus. Dates for resits will be announced. The Annual Sports Meeting, originally set on May 15-16, is canceled. The Reserve Week is set for addition teaching activities related with COVID-19 control. The University will determine if this week will be used in a flexible date. Weeks 17-18: Final Examinations. The examination period may start one week earlier if the Reserve Week is canceled, resulting in an end of the Spring semester on July 4. Graduation services for final-year students should be completed no later than July 4. Specific details will be released pending course progression this semester. Summer sessions could start before the end of this semester. Detailed arrangements will be released pending course progression this semester. Holiday breaks and the summer vacation schedule for faculty and staff will be announced by the University Office separately.
